The purpose of transformative education is to empower learners to see the social world differently, through an ever more ethical lens, so that they will challenge and change the status quo as agents of change. Learning in the transformative paradigm involves understanding the world in a different way, changing the way we experience it and the way we act in our day-to-day lives. It has an individual and a collective dimension, and includes both individual and social transformation.

Transformative :: Paradigms-of-education
The transformative paradigm is rooted in the recognition that injustice and inequality are pervasive and the belief that research and evaluation are important tools for addressing these societal ills. As articulated by Donna Mertens, a leading transformative research and evaluation scholar, this paradigm maintains that research and evaluation can and should play an explicit role in identifying and alleviating discrimination and marginalization based on factors such as race, ethnicity ...

Transformative education. As an alternative to the banking model, which situates learners as recipients of knowledge and thus education as reproductive, critical pedagogy positions learners as participants in knowledge creation, and thus education as transformative. The purpose of transformative education is to empower learners to see the social world differently and through an ethical lens, so that they will challenge and change the status quo as agents of change.
