This title is a collective ensemble of the themes of previous titles in the Nerissa series: honour, justice, nobility, service and selflessness as a definition of love.

In this contemporary romance, a determined writer must create her destiny around a spontaneous sham that lands her in a world of trouble. Vicky West, an exceptionally good looking young blond woman whose lovely face, fine body and bright smile are accouterments to a sharp intellect and an easy going disposition. Vicky has always known that she was born to be a writer but her path to being one has not been easy. All she needs is a break to prove her talent. She quits her job at the Airline, says goodbye to Minneapolis and moves to Paris, then London and eventually to New York City. Many writers stretch the truth at times but what Vicky does is unmatched in it's audacity. It was crazy to attempt to take it all the way and that is just what she told herself at the beginning. How could she ever hope to get away with it? And could she fool the one man who is wily enough to see though her guise?

In the aftermath of their first adventure, Will, Irma, Taranee, Cornelia, and Hay Lin have unleashed a dormant evil... Corrupted by a power greater than herself, the ex-Guardian Nerissa re-emerges to threaten Kandrakar, and only the girls of W.I.T.C.H. can stand in her way!

Desperate to reclaim the power of the Heart of Kandrakar, Nerissa and her Knights of Vengeance put their schemes into motion, and the W.I.T.C.H. girls and their friends won't escape unscathed... Will this be their first true failure as Guardians?

Nerissa has the Heart, and all of Kandrakar is at her mercy! The W.I.T.C.H. girls must face her again, but are they prepared for the sacrifices required for victory...? Will Nerissa finally have her revenge??

There are so many stories, of Canada's heroic participation in the Second World War, that are yet to be told. This is one of those stories. The S.S. Nerissa was the only ship transporting Canadian troops which was lost to enemy action during the entire war. The details were highly classified until almost 50 years after the sinking. The tragic loss of this ship on 30 April 1941, resulted in the third largest loss of life for a ship sunk by U-boats in the approaches to the British Isles. The deaths of 81 Merchant Navy seamen, 98 Canadian, British and Norwegian forces, 11 American Air Transport Auxiliary (ATA) pilots and 17 civilian passengers touched not only Canadian families at the time, but also many families in the allied nations and the neutral United States. Yet, the loss of the S.S. Nerissa is hardly mentioned in official war records or by historians ... and the tragic human losses are largely unknown to our current generation. Nerissa sailed independently, not in escorted convoys. Nerissa's 40th and final wartime crossing of the North Atlantic is the main focus of this book. This book aims to flesh out the events that led up to the sinking by U-552 (Erich Topp) and to include eye witness accounts from many of those that survived and some stories of those that perished. After so many years, their stories still deserve to be told. Much of the material is based on the analysis of: testimony, recollections and/or official reports taken from survivors; and Canadian, British and German source documents which have since been declassified.
